Open New Plant

First Shipment Of Steel Comes

First shipment of steel for Industrial Electric's new enameling plant here arrived Wednesday in preparation for the start of operations next week in the 60,000 square foot structure built under a BAWI bond issue at a cost of about $300,000.

E. M. Brignac, president of the firm, said all necessary equipment should be moved here by the end of next week. Metal fabrication operations will commence next week in order to meet order dates while it probably will be 10 to 15 days after that when the enameling phase starts.

Robert Guldault, manager of the division, reported the porcelain enamel furnace with gas fired radiant tubes should be lighted Saturday week as the plant moves into full operation. It will employ 100 persons initially. Thirty to 40 local men already have been hired and trained for the last two months at the New Orleans plant. Within 30 to 60 days, employment will involve about 60 persons, others being transferred here from New Orleans.

Guldault, who already has purchased a home here, will move over as soon as his children complete the current school term.

Meanwhile City Commissioner J. Cyril Glover and City Attorney Dan M. Russell, Jr., were to fly to Memphis, Tenn., today to deliver the BAWI bond issue to the successful bidders, 1st National Bank of Memphis, and receive the proceeds of the sale, which will be used to purchase Industrial Electric's plant from the firm which will then have a renewable 25-year lease on the property.

LOGUE COPS STATE HONOR - Thomas O. Logue, administrator of Hancock General Hospital and winner of the Bay St. Louis Jaycees' distinguished service award, and Mrs. Logue display the plaque he won as one of Mississippi's three outstanding young men at the state DSA banquet at Edgewater Park Saturday night. A national Jaycee director, he has been responsible for organizing six new chapters in addition to numerous community activities. Others honored were William S. Welch of Columbia and William G. Beaudant of Vicksburg.

Eye Hospital Addition, Convalescent Facility

Hancock General Hospital trustees Tuesday night authorized Thomas O. Logue, administrator, to investigate in detail the ramifications and possibilities of establishing a 40-bed progressive care facility and a 10 to 12 bed addition to the present general hospital.

Action came after Dr. A. K. Martinovich, chief of the medical staff, reported the staff had endorsed the idea and Logue told of the encouragement given by Foster Fowler, director of the Mississippi Commission on Hospital Care, which would largely determine if federal and state funds totaling two-thirds of construction costs would be made available for use here.

Financing the other one-third of the estimated $300,000 to $400,000 cost is the major obstacle, Logue said, since he felt the county should not be asked for these funds in view of their present commitments, but he thought the money might be raised by private contributions and Congress might pass legislation this year which would make the project easier to conclude.

The proposed progressive care facility or long term care unit would operate under the hospital's board of trustees but otherwise be separate from the general hospital. It would provide at a cost of one-half or less than charged by a general hospital the medical and nursing services needed by many chronically ill persons who require more than nursing home care but less attention than that provided for those acutely ill.

Fowler, in discussing location of such a unit here, said it was particularly adaptable to Hancock County because of the relatively high proportion of senior citizens and the lack of such facilities in more heavily populated Harrison County.

In looking into the matter Logue plans to inspect similar medical facilities at Clarksdale, Okolona and Forest, the last two not yet completed.

Dr. Arno H. Fromm, representing the Joint Commission of Accreditation, is expected to inspect Hancock General tomorrow, the administrator said, adding that he thought the hospital was in good shape for the inspection, and "we can't get any more ready" but that the recent shortage of physicians practicing in the area may cause some trouble. He explained that the doctors have had to spend so much time taking care of their unusually heavy patient load, that they have been pressed to keep up with the records necessary for an accredited hospital, a recognition which few hospitals of Hancock General's size receive.

The board approved Logue's request for authority to advertise for purchase of four items of non-medical equipment to be paid for from money in the equipment fund, and he reported the purchases for $75 of a water purification unit.

January disbursements with an average patient load of 19.5 per day, exceeded receipts by $3,355.55, leaving a Jan. 31 adjusted book balance of $9,629.95. January expenses, not including payroll, of $8,150.16 were approved by the board, and Trustee T. T. Reboil, Jr., reiterated his caution that the hospital continued in a precarious financial position.

Smith Portrait Unveiling Set

Unveiling a portrait of the late Dr. A. P. Smith and formal dedication of the isolate given Hancock General Hospital in memory of the beloved doctor by his friends will take place at the hospital at 3:30 p.m., Feb. 23.

Taking part in brief ceremonies will be Dr. Schuyler Barton, Biloxi, former pastor of First Baptist Church here, Rev. Kevin Reid, Our Lady of the Gulf Parish, Rev. Charles R. Johnson, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, and Dr. A. K. Martinovich, Jr., chief of the medical staff at the hospital. Dan M. Russell, Jr., will be master of ceremonies.

Gulfview P-TA To Enter Float

It also was voted to buy a new record player for the school and the necessary records for each classroom.

Mrs. Malcolm Green gave the invocation and the attendance prize went to Mrs. Kenneth McCarty's first grade.

School Board Votes Increase in Tuition

The county board of education at a special meeting Monday morning voted unanimously to pay $75 per pupil tuition to the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District for the 1962-63 session, postponed a request to the board of supervisors for additional millage to finance this cost and recessed until Wednesday night to take up staff appointments for the coming year.

President Charles B. Murphy opened the meeting with city school board representatives by telling them his board had discussed the matter and decided this was "not an opportune time" to ask the supervisors for the one and a half or two mill hike to provide for the $25 tuition increase. Talking over the matter informally earlier, he suggested the school request might cause confusion in view of the proposed $5 road bond issue and that millage increase, that supervisors normally don't set the next year's tax rate until September among some other factors.

Robert L. Hamilton, city board president, and J. D. McCullough, superintendent, had joined the county body to take their plea before the supervisors that morning. However, Trustee E. P. Orte moved for the $75 rate, seconded by Alton D. Keller of Beat 2. After the measure was approved McCullough inquired if the board would think about the future and state its intention to compensate the city schools for the actual cost of educating the county pupils sent to the Bay system which this year runs to $112. Murphy replied that his board had to depend on the supervisors for millage and still had to repay some old loans which could only be met through more taxes earmarked for the schools.

Trustee Lucie Neale of Beat 3 protested appointment of the board's attorney and two secretaries in the superintendent's office, listed by Superintendent K. G. McCarty on the agenda for the session, unless McCarty was ready to make a recommendation on the principal's post at Hancock North Central. Keller subsequently withdrew his motion to reappoint the trio (action on that having been overlooked at the January reorganizational session) but declared the board should act on the principals on or before Feb. 15 as stipulated by state law. He complained this deadline has been too frequently overlooked. McCarty promised to have his recommendations ready Wednesday night and the board agreed to meet then.

A $300 pay allotment to McCarty was authorized since the balance in 16th Section funds is over $10,000, this being provided by state law.

5 road improvements. Powell Glass, Jr., vice president of the county chamber, presented that body's two recommendations in the absence of President W. R. Gordon.

Gex was a trifle dubious about the supervisors seeking the choice. Postoffice designation after "the run-around" he and Board President R. G. Hubbard, Jr., got when they carried the ball in trying to get NASA to name the test site for Hancock County, all of the five simple areas being within its boundaries.

Hubbard observed, however, that the postoffice question rested with Colmer rather than Sen. John D. Stennis, member of the Senate space committee who the board has diagnosed as the stumbling block in the test site name. He suggested federal authorities might assign the county the postoffice but not the test site name and then advanced a plan to thwart any unsatisfactory application given the test site.

"I woke up the other night," said Hubbard, "and decided they can't stop us from putting up signs on U. S. 90 calling it the 'Hancock County test site.' " He added that the new enameling division plant of Industrial Electric in Bay St. Louis might be prevailed upon to make the signs. Beat 4 Supervisor James D. Neale advised that similar signs be erected at the Pearl River County entrances to Hancock.

Don S. Martin, a planning consultant from New Orleans, outlined to the supervisors the case in favor of county planning with emphasis on its desirability in attracting the new

To another chamber recommendation for prompt steps toward redistricting in the light of Uncle Sam's impending acquisition of better than one-third of the county's area—the supervisors turned a muted ear. "You're not going to get anyone to come here with the taxes you've got," Beat 2 Supervisor J. M. Frierson advised, while Lucien M. ## Teen times

Baseball tournaments and pre-Mardi Gras festivities hold the spotlight in the way of entertainment as far as members of the younger set are concerned.

Bay High hosted the A-AA Sub-district basketball tournament last week—Long Beach upset St. Stanislaus in the initial round of play—North Central defeated Bay High in Thursday night's match, and continued their victorious streak by whipping Harrison Central in the finals Saturday night.

Tigerettes Carol Bourgeois, Peggy LaFrance and their coach, Wilmer Seymour, are in for congratulations—Carol and Peggy were selected for the all conference team by Gulf Coast Conference coaches and Seymour was picked as the outstanding girls' team coach, at a meeting Feb. 3. Carol ran second in the polling, receiving 143 out of a possible 168 votes.

Teen-age mystery of the week—What were the colorful pink decorations on Edward Wyatt's and Sidney Sanders' automobiles Friday night? And it was not what most of our readers will immediately assume! So guess again.

Eight of the 22 Beta Club members at Bay High left early Friday morning for Jackson and the annual convention. Ann Clark, Carol Western, Gloria Lombardo and Paula Crider received a suite in the Heidelberg Hotel. Kay DeLoach was forced to cancel her plans to attend as the virus caught up with her. Boys enjoying the trip were Alfred Watts, J. P. Compretra, Warren Traub and Bob Hamilton.

Edith Traub, a freshman at MSCW, has added yet another honor to her growing list; being the recipient of the Kruger Award, which consists of a very nice check in addition to the usual plaque. It's for attainment in the field of home economics. Edith will attend Girl Scout round-up in Vermont next summer.

Elaine Davis, 11, is feeling a bit better after surgery on her foot Saturday—the infected member caused her to be absent from classes at St. Joseph all of last week.

Spring football practice is underway once more—the Rockchaws of Stanislaus held their first session Saturday and will continue working out on week-ends through March 1—the Tigers began Monday, Feb. 12 and will be getting into shape until March 14.

Thirteen of Bay High's band students will attend the Pearl River Junior College annual band clinic this Friday and Saturday. Those going are Paula Crider, Martha Wheeler, Carolyn Damians, Nancy Chastman, Karen Williams, Penmie Sue Webb, Judy Compretra, Janet Crow, Janet Saucier, Irene Thomas, Wayne Ladner, James Walte and C. J. Favre—Gail Higgins will accompany the group as a spectator.

There'll be big doings at the Bay St. Louis Youth Center Friday night—Valentine's Day is to be the theme of a dance to benefit the annual Heart Fund Drive. A king and a queen are to be selected at 9:30—come one, come all—you'll be helping a worthy cause and having fun all at the same time.

Girl Scouts Open Annual Cookie Sale

Annual Girl Scout cookie sale begins Saturday and continues through March 3. Mrs. Willys Rhodes, chairman of the sale for the Bay St. Louis neighborhood, has announced.

All local troops will participate with proceeds going into a fund for future purchase of an established camp site by the Gulf Pines council. Troops are allowed to retain a certain per centage for their own use.

A very happy birthday to Earline Bourgeois who was 16 Feb. 9. Earline, a patient at Sanatorium, will be home for a brief visit on or around the first of March and will be discharged in June.

The larger balls in New Orleans are being enjoyed by numerous local girls and boys. Bay Chamberlain resigned as queen of the Calypso of Cairo last week. Bay is a frequent summer visitor, as her grandmother, Mrs. L. C. Chamberlain lives on North Beach Blvd. Pretty Barbara Brown has been chosen to serve as one of the queen's attendants in an upcoming ball.

King cake parties are also popular—Linda Munch hosted one of these affairs last Friday night—Mickey Ballatin found the bean and chose Janet Crow as his queen.

Claire Hayward has unfortunately missed most of these parties. She's recuperating from a severe case of scarlet fever—her younger sister Connie picked up the 'bug' and is at the moment feeling just plain miserable. Mary Lou Herlihy has also been under the weather. . . she had a very bad cold.

More get well wishes go to Karen Williams, formerly known as 'just shave it all off'—guess she'll now be called 'just cut it all out'—she lost her appendix at Hancock General last Wednesday night.

Larry Sauer, III, has enlisted in Uncle Sam's Air Force. Another serviceman, Billy Prevost, U. S. Army, is home on leave—Caroline Damians is still the most important lady in his young life.

More Carnival doings—The Bay Central P-TA has chosen tv programs as the theme of their annual parade and ball. . . Connie Geiger and Bruce Cox will reign as queen and king respectively. This year's affair promises to be bigger and better than ever.

Seniors at Bay High are truly feeling their might these days—12th graders received their right to enter and exit via the front portals. They are also allowed to go into the building before the bell rings.

Birthday greetings to Margaret Pullizzano who celebrated Thurs., Feb. 8, and to Judy Compretra who is looking forward to obtaining her driver's license on her 15th birthday, Valentine's Day, Feb. 14.

Monday morning found just about as many St. Joseph students absent as present—a particularly vicious virus has felled many of the girls. Margie Kempf, Jr. and Laurie Keifer were both hospitalized over the weekend as a result of this illness. Caroline Damians is another victim.

Mike Poindexter became the first member of his league (Bantam Boys) to break 200 when he racked up a 202 in last Saturday morning's competition.

Charlotte Price is another who has been ill recently—the victim of a sore throat.

Jackie Bishop of New Orleans was Paulette Glass's houseguest last weekend.

Two mysteries—first who is R.B.7 Hint—for further details, contact Tunell Backlund—number two—Cathy Thompson appears to have a new interest—he's tall, blonde and of course, handsome.

Sooner The Better

Last week the board of directors of Hancock County Chamber of Commerce unanimously voted to request the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to take immediate steps to redistrict the county with due regard for population as required by Mississippi law. While the county can be redistricted by petition and referendum, the easy way is by unanimous vote of the supervisors. The chamber's board, as well as this editor, seemed to feel that, in addition to ease and speed, the procedure of redistricting by the board of supervisors might have another advantage—that a sincere board of supervisors could probably come up with a plan acceptable to a greater proportion of the county's citizens, since the board would be likely to recognize some political and practical considerations a citizens' group might disregard.

In any event when the resolution of the Chamber of Commerce's board was presented to the supervisors Monday, it was certainly not received with any outward sign of rejoicing or even any indication that the board of supervisors would take any "immediate steps". In fact the only comments on redistricting came when Mr. Lucien Gex, attorney for the board, remarked that passing a redistricting resolution now might complicate issuance of the $200,000 in bonds for Beat 5 road construction voted by the board last week. Mr. Gex apparently meant to show that after redistricting the assessed valuation of the appropriate district might not be sufficient to lawfully issue that amount in bonds.

At first blush Mr. Gex's observation would appear to point up a valid reason not to redistrict at this time. On consideration, however, we believe Mr. Gex has actually pointed up a very good reason for quick action, the quicker the better.

We believe few people would seriously question the need for redistricting, though there may be many points of disagreement on any particular plan. After all, when the federal government takes over the actual test zone, scheduled for July 1, the already disproportionately small Beat 2 will lose much of its population. When the buffer zone is taken over in two or three years, the habitable area of present Beat 2 may have a few more than the four families now living therein but not many, a very large part of current Beat 1 will be uninhabitable as will portions of existing Beats 4 and 5.

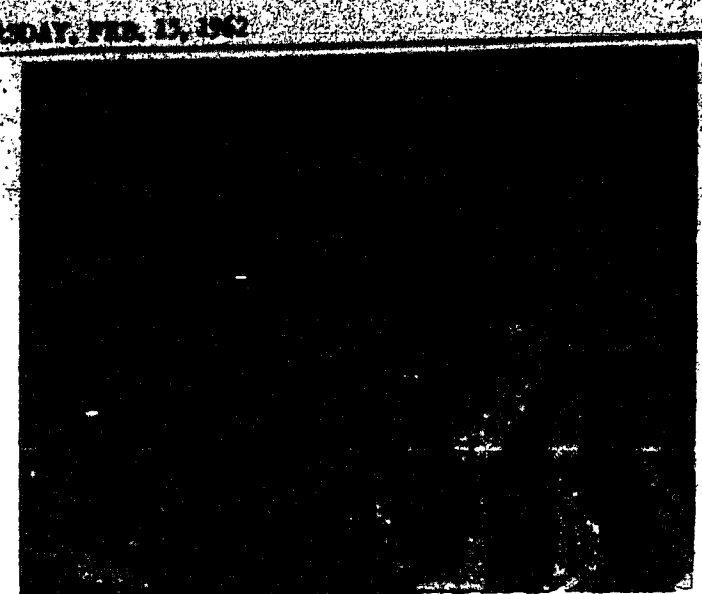

We also believe few people would seriously question the need for this county and its various beats to expend relatively large sums in the next few years to provide improvements and services a fast growing population must have if we are to take advantage of our opportunities. Furthermore, the money the county and its subdivisions may have to produce must be raised by bond issues.

If these two premises, i. e., the need for redistricting and the probable need for raising money by bond issue, are valid and we think they are, then the sooner a reasonable redistricting becomes a fact the sooner the county and its districts can plan for and properly finance such improvements as may be required.

If selfish political motives not germane to the problem are discarded we see no reason why redistricting in a fair and feasible way can't be accomplished by June or earlier and, if such seemed likely which it doesn't, think postponing a few months the $200,000 Beat 5 bond issue requested by Board President R. G. Hubbard, Jr., would be a mighty small price to pay for this advance in our county.

Should Be Routine

The number of brush, forest and grass fires requiring assistance for control usually start showing a rise about this time of year. About now a lot of property owners are cleaning up trash or cleaning grown over fields, etc., by burning and too frequently the fire gets out of hand.

To the extent that they can forestry commission personnel work to bring these fires under control, but by the time they should be notified, which is when the fire is out of control, some damage has already been done. In addition their equipment is of little or no value in fighting a fire in a barn or home, though they may be able to keep a grass fire from reaching a building.

Currently, according to Mr. Glenn Purvis, area forester, they are under another handicap in fighting fires in the south-east part of the county because of the time it takes to reach Clement Harbor, for instance, from the Rocky Hill tower while the Kila Road is out. For this reason Mr. Purvis urges property owners in that area to take extra precautions when clearing their land by burning and reminded us that his organization will construct fire lanes at cost for those so desiring. These extra precautions, it seems to us, might well be classed as routine.

Mr. Thomas O. Logue, able administrator of Hancock General Hospital, has now received another Jaycee award, this time from the state organization, which selected him one of three recipients for its distinguished service award. Mr. Logue had already been so honored by Bay St. Louis Jaycees and is one of four national directors from Mississippi.

Naturally Mr. Logue gets our hearty congratulations, but in this connection we would also like to pay two other tributes: to Mrs. Logue for letting her husband use his spare time on many civic programs, which must cut into his baby tending and other home chores; and to the Bay St. Louis Jaycee chapter, since had it not been an outstanding chapter it is doubtful that the state organization would have recognized the value of Mr. Logue's contributions to our community.

On Gex' advice, the board agreed to wire the state legislature opposing the utilization bill now pending which he said would freeze out wildcaters and allow the big oil companies to take over exploration for oil in the state.

Original quota of 75 couples for the Denizens of the Deep, inaugural mask Carnival ball at the Warrick Yacht Club, already has been exceeded and the event will close with 100 entries, according to Mrs. Richard Hadden, chairman of the auxiliary which is assisting with plans for the gala occasion.

The court committee already has selected five maids and the king to reign at the ball but their identities will not be disclosed until they make their appearance Feb. 23.

Richard Hadden will serve as captain and select four lieutenants to help bring the king ashore from the boat to dock at the club's pier. The band will be there to greet him and cannons will herald his arrival.

All men in the krewe will be crowned and will gather on the ground floor of the club for a social period before going upstairs to join the ladies for the dance.
